LONG ISLAND READS: ONE ISLAND/ONE BOOK

This year’s choice is The River of Doubt: Theodore Roosevelt’s Darkest Journey by Candice Millard. Last year’s choice was Doris Kearns Goodwin’s Wait Till Next Year.

Book Discussion with Edna Ritzenberg
The River of Doubt: Theodore Roosevelt’s Darkest Journey
By Candice Millard
- Wednesday, April 7, 1 pm

_The River of Doubt_ focuses on an episode in Teddy Roosevelt’s search for adventure that nearly came to a disastrous end. After Roosevelt lost a third-party bid for the White House in 1912, he decided to get away from it all by accepting an invitation, which included his son Kermit, for a South American trip that quickly evolved into an ill-prepared journey down an unexplored tributary of the Amazon known as the River of Doubt.

“Millard, a former staff writer for National Geographic, nails the suspense element of this story perfectly, but equally important to her success is the marvelous amount of detail she provides on the wildlife that Roosevelt and his fellow explorers encountered on their journey, as well as the cannibalistic indigenous tribe that stalked them much of the way.” — Publisher’s Weekly

Mudbound
by Hillary Jordan
Discussion leader: Edna Ritzenberg
Monday, April 26, 1 pm

In 1946, Laura McAllan, a college-educated school teacher, reluctantly becomes a farmer’s wife when her husband Henry buys a farm on the Mississippi Delta, which she nicknames Mudbound. Life is difficult on the farm and made more difficult by her live-in misogynous, racist, father-in-law. Henry’s brother Jamie and Ronsel Jackson, the son of their black tenants, return from the horrors of war and their experience in Europe, and are now unable to live by the racist rules of the South. Jordan’s debut novel is the 2006 Bellwether Prize winner. The prize, founded by author Barbara Kingsolver, rewards books of conscience, social responsibility, and literary merit.

Await Your Reply
by Dan Chaon
Discussion Leader: Candace Plotsker-Herman
Monday, June 7, 1 PM

Three characters’ lives propel this novel of lost souls. Eighteen-year-old Lucy Lattimore, her parents dead, flees her hometown with a charismatic high school teacher, soon to find herself involved in a dangerous embezzling scheme. Miles Chesire is searching for his unstable twin brother, Hayden, a man with many personas who’s been missing for 10 years. Ryan Schuyler is running identity-theft scams for his birth father, Jay Kozelek, after dropping out of college to reconnect with him.

“Chaon deftly intertwines a trio of story lines, showcasing his characters’ individuality by threading subtle connections between and among them with effortless finesse, all the while invoking the complexities of what’s real and what’s fake with mesmerizing brilliance..”— Publishers Weekly

SPECIAL FILM EVENT

Herb & Dorothy
You don’t have to be a Rockefeller to collect art
Directed by Megumi Sasaki, documentary, 98 min.
■ Thursday, June 24, 2 pm

Herb & Dorothy tells the extraordinary story of Herbert Vogel, a postal clerk, and Dorothy Vogel, a librarian, who managed to build one of the most important contemporary art collections in history with very modest means.

In the early 1960s, Herb and Dorothy Vogel quietly began purchasing the works of unknown artists. Devoting all of Herb’s salary to purchase art they liked, and living on Dorothy’s paycheck alone, they continued collecting artworks guided by two rules: the piece had to be affordable, and it had to be small enough to fit in their one-bedroom Manhattan apartment. Within these limitations, they proved themselves curatorial visionaries; most of those they supported and befriended went on to become world-renowned artists including Sol LeWitt, Christo and Jeanne-Claude, Richard Tuttle, and Chuck Close.

After thirty years of meticulous collecting and buying, the Vogels managed to accumulate over 2,000 pieces, filling every corner of their tiny one bedroom apartment. “Not even a toothpick could be squeezed into the apartment,” recalls Dorothy. In 1992, the Vogels decided to move their entire collection to the National Gallery of Art in Washington, DC. The vast majority of their collection was given as a gift to the institution. Many of the works they acquired appreciated so significantly over the years that their collection today is worth millions of dollars. The Vogels never sold a single piece.
