THE FLORENCE AND JOHN LAWRENCE CONCERT

Lionel Cottet, cello and Louis Schwizgebel, piano

Sunday, December 16, 2:30 pm

The acclaimed Duo L & L was recently admitted into the prestigious Artist Diploma program at The Juilliard School, where they will continue their artistic pursuits under the tutelage of Emmanuel Ax, Robert McDonald, and Joel Krosnick.

Lionel Cottet & Louis Schwizgebel were both born in Geneva in 1987, and met for the first time 10 years ago at the Swiss final of the Eurovision Contest in Lugano. Since that time, a strong friendship and artistic partnership began to develop. In 2008, they were both awarded Soloist of the Migros Culture Percentage in Zurich and began to perform together extensively. In March 2011, their first CD was released, recorded live from a performance at the Great Hall of the Geneva Conservatoire. They have since performed all over Europe in venues such as the Victoria Hall in Geneva, the Chopin Festival in Poland and the Sommets Musicaux in Gstaad.

The current 2012 season has included their debut at Wigmore Hall in London and at the Menuhin Festival in Gstaad, Switzerland, as well as performances in Alice Tully Hall and Merkin Hall in New York City.

“A light and genial performance, full of sparkling details and with a dash of rapt reveries...” —The Strad

ELINOR LIPMAN
Tweet Land of Liberty:
Irreverent Rhymes from the Political Circus
■ Wednesday, October 17, 2 pm
Now, the best of these small gems is collected in Tweet Land Of Liberty, which delightfully documents the latest breaking polls, promises, and political skirmishes of the election season circus.

Told by many of her readers that she’s their first news source each day, Lipman approaches her daily chore with both a sense of fun and purpose, pouring over each line to create artful, humorous, and meaningful, rhyming verses.

“I am proud to have met syllabic challenges like ‘Blagojevich, Callista, Tiffany’s, and to have rhymed ‘Santorum’ in a believable context with ‘Purim’”, notes Lipman.

Romney’s bus is painted quaint,
Its symbols won’t bring 1 complaint: Silos! Lighthouse! Art naïve.
It’s 1950s Mittbelieve.

Elinor Lipman is the author of nine novels. Her essays have appeared in The New York Times “Modern Love” and “Writers on Writing” columns, and in The Boston Globe and The Washington Post. Her next novel, The View from Penthouse B, and an essay collection, I Can’t Complain, will be published in May 2013. She held the 2011-2012 Elizabeth Drew Chair in Creative Writing at Smith College.

In this lecture the power of the American Presidency will be examined. Tracing the Presidency from its beginning as envisioned by the framers of the Constitution as the leader of their new political system, Mr. Sorrentino will continue the analysis as to how the changing world and America’s role in it has impacted the office of the Presidency.

This program, which is free and open to the public, is made possible through the support of the New York Council for the Humanities.

ART LECTURES

with Thomas Germano

Johannes Vermeer and the Art of Holland

The Palazzo e Scuderie del Quirinale, Rome
October 2012- January 2013
- Tuesday, October 16, 1 pm

Ground was broken for the Palazzo del Quirinale in 1574, following the order of Pope Gregory XIII, to establish a papal summer residence. The Quirinale is one of the Seven Hills of Rome and the site of profound, successive history traced back to pre-Roman times. The Quirinale first opened its doors to the public for Rome’s Jubilee and has since held many important exhibitions. Professor Germano will discuss the history and the many exhibits in the past 12 years, focusing on the upcoming Vermeer exhibit.

George Bellows (1882-1925)

Metropolitan Museum of Art
November 15, 2012- February 18, 2013
- Tuesday, November 20, 1 pm

At the time of his death at age 42, George Bellows was regarded as one of America’s greatest artists. George Bellows excelled in baseball at Ohio State University but his illustrations for the student yearbook hinted at an artistic calling. After turning down an offer from a Major League Baseball Club, Bellows moved to New York City to study with Robert Henri, one of America’s most influential art teachers. He became associated with the generation of artists of the Ashcan school. Bellows was also a talented lithographer.

Bernini, Sculpting in Clay

Metropolitan Museum of Art
October 3, 2012- January 6, 2013
- Tuesday, December 11, 1 pm

To visualize life size or colossal marble sculptures, Gian Lorenzo Bernini, the great Roman Baroque sculptor, conceived his ideas by making small, preliminary clay models. These models and drawings give the first traces of the thought process that evolved into the most famous statuary seen throughout the city of Rome today.

‘Forever Free’: Lincoln, Civil War and the American March to Emancipation

with James Coll
Adjunct associate professor of American and Constitutional History, Nassau Community College, and Detective, NYPD
- Tuesday, December 18, 1 pm

Last year, 2011, was the 150th anniversary of the Civil War. Few events in American history have been as consequential in defining American identity as the Civil War. This discussion will focus on President Abraham Lincoln’s Emancipation Proclamation as well as wartime legislative developments dealing with the ‘peculiar institution’. We will also explore the subsequent policy for Reconstruction of the South that resulted in nothing short of a revolution in American constitutional theory.

(Note: The film, Lincoln, will be released in November 2012, directed by Steven Spielberg, written by Doris Kearns Goodwin, screenplay by Tony Kushner, starring Joseph Gordon-Levitt, Sally Field, Tommy Lee Jones, and Daniel Day-Lewis as Lincoln.)

Lecture and Author Visit

The Churches in Europe and the Missing 10,000 Jewish Children from the Holocaust
With Dr. Moshe Avital
- Thursday, December 13, 1 pm

Dr. Avital was born in Bilke, a village on the eastern part of the former Czechoslovakia called Ruthenia, now Ukraine. During the Holocaust, he was imprisoned in Ghetto Berhovo (Beregszas in Hungary). From there he and his family were transported to many notorious camps, ending in Buchenwald, Germany. The US Third Army liberated him on April 11, 1945. Dr. Avital is the author of several books on the Holocaust.

The List by Martin Fletcher
Discussion leader: Edna Ritzenberg
- Monday, October 15
  It is London 1945, but the war has not ended for Jews like Edith and Georg, a young Austrian couple, awaiting their first child. Each day brings news of the death or possible survival of a relative.

  Veteran war correspondent Martin Fletcher uses his reporter skills in his first novel to investigate a painful, somewhat forgotten, chapter in British history. This is a thrilling story of postwar sabotage and the lives of the survivors of the Holocaust.

  “Veteran NBC correspondent Fletcher’s engrossing first novel, loosely based on his parent’s story, captures a neglected piece of postwar history . . . .” —Kirkus Reviews

How It All Began by Penelope Lively
Discussion leader: Candace Plotser-Herman
- Monday, November 12
  Charlotte Rainsford, a retired school teacher, is mugged on a London street, losing her handbag and leaving her injured. The repercussions of this single event affect the lives of friends, acquaintances, strangers, and those who have never heard of the mugging.

  “Lively delivers her story about these intertwined lives with faultless dexterity, sly humor, keen insight, and deft economy. VERDICT Lively’s 12th novel is a feel-good masterpiece that will delight faithful fans as well as those new to the work of this consummate storyteller.”

  —Joyce Townsend, Library Journal

Lots of Candles, Plenty of Cake
by Anna Quindlen
Discussion leader: Ellen Getreu
- Monday, December 17
  A delightful memoir from Pulitzer prize winner Anna Quindlen, the NY Times columnist of the much loved and read column, A Short Guide to a Happy Life.

  “. . .Like having an older, wiser sister or favorite aunt over for a cup of tea, Quindlen’s latest book is full of the counsel and ruminations many of us wish we could learn young. . . . in her sincere and amusing style, the author reflects on feminism, raising her children, marriage, and menopause.” —Kirkus Reviews

Women Unchained
- Sunday, November 18, 2 pm

Narrated by role-model-of-every Jewish-girl-growing-up-in-the-80s, Mayim Bialik (Blossom, The Big Bang Theory), this profound documentary explores the struggle of agunot (Hebrew for ‘chained’) women whose husbands refuse to grant them a Jewish divorce, or a get. Fighting to gain their freedom, the film presents a tasteful, humorous, yet powerful message.

Mayim Bialik is best known for her portrayal of the young Bette Midler in 1989’s film “Beaches” and went on to star in the popular sitcom “Blossom” from 1990-1994. Bialik holds a Ph.D. in Neuroscience, has two young children, is the spokesperson for the Holistic Moms Network and currently appears as Amy Farrah Fowler on “The Big Bang Theory.”

Rabbi Ginsburg is the spiritual leader of Congregation Sons of Israel in Woodmere, NY. A past president of the Long Island Board of Rabbis and the founder and past national president of the Union for Traditional Judaism, he is known as a community activist on behalf of Israel, Soviet Jewry, and intra/interfaith cooperation. His essays have appeared in Newsday, The Christian Science Monitor, The Jerusalem Report, among others.

District residents may pick up tickets beginning Wednesday, November 7, 10 am & 7 pm. Non-residents who are members of NCJW, Peninsula Section, may reserve a ticket by calling NCJW office; 342 Central Avenue, Lawrence, NY. Tele: 516-569-3660, 9 am - 4 pm, Monday to Thursday.

Lawrence of Arabia
- Wednesday, February 13, 1:30 pm

Starring Peter O’Toole, Alec Guinness, Anthony Quinn, Omar Sharif, José Ferrer, Anthony Quale, Claude Rains, Arthur Kennedy, Jack Hawkins

Directed by David Lean, music by Maurice Jarre, London Philharmonic Orchestra 1962, Rated PG, 216 min.

This historical epic film covers the Allies’ mid eastern campaign during WWI as seen through the eyes of the perplexing, charismatic T.E. Lawrence (August 16, 1888 - May 19, 1935). Screenwriters Robert Bolt and Michael Wilson used T.E. Lawrence’s own self-published memoir, The Seven Pillars of Wisdom, as their principal source, creating composites of some of the characters.

The movie took two years to make and was shot in Spain, Jordan and Morocco. It ended up costing $13 million and won 7 Academy Awards, including Best Picture and Best Director. The film is timeless and beautifully shot and the story at times strikingly relevant to the current situation among the Arab nations and the Middle East.

A bust of T.E. Lawrence is in a crypt at St. Paul’s Cathedral. Mourners at his funeral included Winston and Clementine Churchill and E.M. Forster.

Please note time of film presentations. Some films are offered only in the evening at 7 pm or the afternoon at 2 pm.
